Transient advertisements inserted at $1.00 per square, (eight lines or less) for first insertion, and twenty-five cents for each subsequent insertion.

CASH PLAN ADOPTED.

The postage law, which goes into operation 1st of January, 1875, requires prepayment on all newspapers sent through the mails beyond the limits of the counties in which they are published. We have, therefore, determined to adopt the CASH PLAN for all subscriptions. While avoiding the losses, tardy payments and expenses of collection incident to the credit system, we will be required to prepay the postage. The change determined upon will, therefore, prove beneficial to both subscribers and publisher. The former will be relieved of the postage tax whilst the latter will be enabled to simplify the operations of his business and to improve the facilities for conducting it.

No name will be entered unless the subscription is paid for in advance.
During the past few months every subscriber in arrears has been furnished, through the mails, with a statement of his account. Many have responded with remittances discharging their liabilities and paying in advance for the current year. We appeal urgently to those who have not made a similar response to do so without further delay, as after the first of January, 1875, we will commence to discontinue the paper to those who have not paid in advance. The time within which all in arrears can close up the balances due and make an advance payment is ample, and we flatter ourselves that but few names will be dropped.

ALEXANDRIA, November 9.

POPULAR SUPERSTITIONS.

It is a curious subject of inquiry to discover just where religion ends and superstition begins. Our best society is full of whims, delusions and prejudices that would edify a Hottentot. The breaking of a mirror will spread consternation through a most Christian family, and devout people would rather go hungry than sit down to a table with thirteen. As to seeing the new moon over the left shoulder, they are morally convinced that it will bring misfortune in its train. Your little girl is told by her nurses that she must not undress or dress each foot consecutively, but must alternate the putting on or off of the coverings. It would not be lucky for her during the day if she put shoe, stocking and garter on the right foot, and then on the left; but she must make some inward, such as both stockings followed by a shoe and garter, or vice versa, or, in fact, any change by which she can vary it. Taught this in childhood, she half unconsciously carries it out through life, and if, by any accident, she breaks the rule, she is uneasy for the day, and on the lookout for ill luck. Always pick up a pin when the head is toward you, but if the point presents itself first let it lie. Never mind what necessities of comfort or decency appalling yourself make that pin absolutely needful, you must not pick it up. Go around all day with an uncomfortable feeling at your throat because the button is off your shirt and your collar is loose, but don't touch that pin unless the head is toward you.

Grave and revered sages have been unhappy at seeing the moon over their left shoulder, and every matter that goes wrong during the succeeding month is mentally, if not really, laid to the charge of that unlucky look over the left shoulder.

It is not part of your written creed, but a source of higher law, sprung from some mystical source, whose hidden origin makes it all the more imperative. Don't throw your baby weight when he is born. If you do he will die somewhere between that ceremonial and ten score, probably. Then, even if it were not such a fearful interfering with Providence—albeit it might seem to be a practical solution of the Malthusian philosophy—it is much better to guess at the weight. It calls your higher faculties into play, and forms an alliance between imagination and mathematics not possible under any other circumstances. It almost disproves the axiom that figures cannot lie. In this condition, if the figures do not lie, they are capable of an expansion which much increase their bulk. The mathematical uine, aided by imaginative evolution, becomes the more complicated twelve. Respect the Welsh superstition and don't weigh your baby.

We all know the fatal effects of spilling salt—the quarrel that must ensue unless you throw a pinch over your shoulder or put it in the fire. Thrown away or burned up—the best thing, likely, to do with all tempers. If possible, be indifferent as regards the little season of life consequent upon that salt that proved the truth of gravitation, and thus throw it away; or, if it must come, let it blaze hot and furious and burn up quickly. Anything but a smoldering quarrel.

You must never sit down to table thirteen in number. If you do, one of the party will surely die before the year is out. Whether this is predicted upon the ratio of mortality, in the same way as life assurance or annuities, we cannot say, but thirteen has always been considered an unlucky number. It is the baker's or devil's dozen—the former individual being held in something the same respect as the latter. The original term was devil's dozen, because thirteen witches sat down at table together on their Sabbaths, and it is not well for you to emulate witches on your Sabbath or any other day.

You must not rock the cradle empty, as there are two prophecies concerning this—either that no child will be born to that household; or, if one is living, it will die; or, still more terrible to the modern parent, there will be a quiver overfall of these human arrows. If a light goes out unexpectedly, or you extinguish it accidentally, you must speak no word until you have relighted it. If there are no matches in the house, emulate Harpocrates until some are found and utilized, or fire and fearful trouble will follow.

If you count all the white horses you see at a funeral you will soon die. How it works when there is only one, and you cannot help counting it, we do not know; but the probability is that chariots of fire not being of daily occurrence, you will have to die.

What you dream sleeping in a strance bed will come true; and if you are youth or maiden, bachelor or widow, it is wise to assign to each corner of the room some special divinity whom you wish to have look graciously down upon you. If you dream of her, you may ask what you wish. Mice, pies, cheese, sardines, raisins and hard boiled eggs are a good introductory supper to little matters of this sort. Something is sure to come of it then. The deity will frown, perhaps, and walk over you, or sit upon you with the intention of crushing you; but this all right, since "Dhramas always go by contraries, ye know."

If you put a garment on wrong side out, you must not change it. You may let another person do it for you, if you are very serious about it, and intend upon some wish at the time. Otherwise, though it is your new silk, that is all flounces, applied to an alpaca skirt, you must wear it so even at the risk of discovering the sham to your nearest neighbor or dearest friend.

Trouble will never come near folks whose eyebrows meet. Certain such have been hanged or imprisoned, but that was probably no trouble to them. Wise legislation took care of that.

These are but a few of the commonest of our extra articles of faith. There are many more which would serve as texts, and may yet be preached from. Meanwhile where does religion end and superstition begin?

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the Liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is Regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Chills, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which the remedy that has been discovered. Its acts mildly, effectively, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for FORTY YEARS, and the hundreds of the great and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR,
OR MEDICINE,
Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
Is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarrange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind,
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

The Montpelier Female Humane Association, chartered by the Legislature of Virginia and the Circuit Court of Orange county, proposes, by a series of Grand Gift Concerts, to establish and endow a "Home for the Old, Infirm and Destitute Ladies of Virginia," at Montpelier, the former residence of President Jas. Madison. The Association is under the control of eight trustees, six of whom are elected biennially by the stockholders and two appointed by the Governor of Virginia.

Reference is made to His Excellency, James L. Kemper, Governor of Virginia; His Excellency, Gilbert C. Walker, ex-Gov. of Va.; Hon. Robert E. Withers, Lieutenant Governor of Virginia and U. S. Senator elect; Hon. Robt. W. Hughes, Judge Eastern District of Virginia; Senators and Members of Congress from Virginia.

Governor's Office, Richmond, July 3, '74. It affords me pleasure to say that I am well acquainted with a large majority of the officers of the Montpelier Female Humane Association, who reside in the vicinity of my home, and I attest their intelligence and their worth and high reputation as gentlemen, as well as the public confidence, influence and substantial means liberally represented among them.

ALEXANDRIA, VA., July 8th, 1874.
My personal acquaintance with a majority of the gentlemen controlling the Montpelier Female Humane Association and the reputation of all of them enables me to commend them as fully entitled to the confidence of the public. No act of representation inconsistent with honor and integrity need be apprehended in the conduct or representations of these gentlemen.

R. W. HUGHES,
U. S. Judge East. Dist. of Va.
For full particulars, testimonials, &c., send for circular.
Remittances for tickets may be made by express pre-paid, postoffice money order on Alexandria, Va., or by registered letter, addressed to Hon. James BARBOUR, President M. F. H. A., Alexandria, Va. Reliable Agents wanted everywhere.
